

“If God Be For Us” Psalm 27:1-6; Exodus 14:1-15

The most important part of our life is what goes on in our soul and the real you is the soul and fear becomes part of the makeup of our soul when we don't have the inner resources of biblical truth to remain strong.

David had some great failures and some great successes and he finally came to the point where he realized something powerfully important regarding his security.

David is going to be a fugitive for a few more years but no longer is he going to be a frightened, panic-stricken person.

Sadly, many believers carry around their own unhappiness through their mental attitude sinning as long as they live and although they may change their environment many times in life in an attempt to improve their situation to relieve their suffering, there's no way any member of the human race, believer or unbeliever, can ever get away from self-induced misery caused by mental attitude sins.

At this point David is victorious because he recognizes by faith that even though there are some very difficult paths ahead, God is faithful and He will keep His Word and he also knows with surety that he is going to be king.

It's Jesus Christ who will elevate David to rulership of Israel and David is occupied with the source of the blessings, Jesus Christ and not simply with the details of the blessings.
